The information for this document has come from many places such as newspapers, year books, scorebooks, school newsletters, personal memories, school board minutes, countless interviews, previously written booklets, old photographs, etc.

The year books, scorebooks, school newsletters, and photographs provided specific information on respective basketball teams. However, the bulk of the information on the previously uncollected data on the early days of Putnam County came from newspapers. Most newspapers in the early days did not have a sport's page as we see today. Short and limited articles were interspersed throughout the paper. They might be on the front page or the last. Schools that had a newspaper in their towns were better covered. Newspapers that have existed in Putnam County are as follows: Putnam County Vidette, Continental News Review, Leipsic Free Press, Putnam County Gazette, Putnam County Sentinel, Pandora Times, The Kalida Record, Gilboa Gazette and the Western County News.

The history of girls' basketball in Putnam County has many different and interesting facets. The following areas will be addressed: Schools, the Putnam County League, the Teams, the Coaches, the Players, the Putnam County Tournaments, the Game Results, the Gymnasiums and the Records.

THE SCHOOLS OF PUTNAM COUNTY

At one time or another there were nineteen different high schools playing girls' basketball in Putnam County. As schools consolidated through the years, the number of schools gradually declined to the present number of nine. The entire list is as follows: Belmore, Blanchard, Columbus Grove, Continental, Crawfis College, Fort Jennings, Glandorf, Kalida, Leipsic, Miller City, Ottawa, Ottawa-Glandorf, Ottawa Public, Ottawa SPPS, Ottoville, Palmer, Pandora, Pandora-Gilboa and Vaughnsville.

The current high schools in Putnam County are Columbus Grove, Continental, Fort Jennings, Kalida, Leipsic, Miller City, Ottawa-Glandorf, Ottoville and Pandora-Gilboa.

Belmore consolidated with Leipsic in the early 1930's. Its last entry in the PCT was in 1932. Belmore recorded basketball scores from 1922-1932. Leipsic has scores from 1916 to the present.

Crawfis College and the Gilboa district joined to form Blanchard High School in 1940. Its last entry in the PCT was in 1939. Crawfis College has scores from 1916-1939.

Blanchard and Pandora consolidated to form Pandora-Gilboa High School in 1952. Blanchard's last entry in the PCT was in 1951. It has basketball scores from 1940-1951. Pandora's last entry in the PCT was in 1951. It has scores from 1915-1951. Pandora-Gilboa has basketball scores from 1952 to the present.

Vaughnsville consolidated with Columbus Grove in 1963. Its last entry in the PCT was in 1962. Vaughnsville has recorded basketball scores from 1915-1962. Columbus Grove has scores from 1914 to the present.

In the summer of 1941, Palmer High School was dissolved and a new school district was formed. Some of the New Cleveland area was added to the original Palmer district. A portion of the old Palmer district was taken away and put into the Continental school district. Thus, the 'new school' was the 'old school' with a new name. It was renamed the Miller City-New Cleveland School District. Palmer's last entry in the PCT was in 1941. It has recorded basketball scores from 1924-1941. Miller City has scores from 1942 to the present.

The consolidation of Ottawa Public, Ottawa SPPS and Glandorf took place over a three-year period. Ottawa Public and Ottawa SPPS joined together in 1962 to form Ottawa High School. Ottawa then joined with Glandorf in 1965 to form Ottawa-Glandorf. Ottawa Public's last entry in the PCT was in 1961. It has recorded basketball scores from 1908-1961. Ottawa SPPS's last entry in the PCT was in 1961. It has scores from 1928-1961. Ottawa's last entry in the PCT was in 1964. It has scores from 1962-1964. Glandorf's last entry in the PCT was in 1964. It has scores from 1915-1964. Ottawa-Glandorf has recorded basketball scores from 1965 to the present.

Girls' Basketball in Putnam County

Three schools are basically the same since their beginning, Continental, Fort Jennings and Kalida. Continental has recorded basketball scores from 1910 to the present, Fort Jennings from 1940 to the present and Kalida from 1915 to the present.

All the Putnam County schools have had girls' basketball at one time or another except for Ottawa SPPS which never had girl's basketball.

All the schools in Putnam County participate in the PCL except for Ottawa-Glandorf. OG participated in the PCL in 1965-1967, but it is now a member of the WBL. Leipsic, Pandora-Gilboa and Columbus Grove also play in another league. Besides the PCL, Leipsic and Pandora-Gilboa are in the BVC and Columbus Grove plays in the NWC.

THE BEGINNING OF HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL IN PUTNAM COUNTY AND THE FORMATION OF THE PCL

The earliest picture of a team was the 1912 Continental Pirates and their coach.

The first recorded girls' basketball score was in 1914 when Columbus Grove, coached by F. W. Sexton, defeated an unknown opponent 10-4.

From 1912-1918, only a few schools have any results reported in the newspapers and even fewer scores. In 1917 Leipsic, coached by Earl Harmon, had a 3-2 record. In these five games, the Vikings outscored its opponents 21-12 with two shut outs!

In 1919, seven schools had 17 games reported to the press verses only two schools and no results in 1918.

In 1920, the popularity of girls' basketball became very evident with seven schools playing nearly 60 games

In 1921, another new aspect to Putnam County basketball was that the boys started to play in post season tournaments leading to a state championship. These tournaments were different than today because schools were separated by town size and only invited schools could participate. This tourney was broken into two classes, A and B. The Class A level was for towns with 2,500 or more people. The Class B level was for towns with less than 2,500 people.

In 1922, the first Putnam County Tournament was held at the Ottawa Armory. It was not an elimination tourney leading to the state tournament, but just a tournament to determine the best boys' team in Putnam County.

In 1923, no mention of a PCT is recorded, but the majority of the teams were still participating in the post season invitational tournaments. These tournaments were having serious problems since so many teams wanted to play in them. Defiance had over 100 teams playing in its two-level tourney. As a result, it was determined to break the post season tournaments into many county tournaments at the first level. The Class A level was for schools with 150 boys or more. The Class B level was for schools with less than 150 boys. The boys in the top four grades, 9-12, were counted. In 1970, this was changed to the top three grades, 10-12.

In 1924, basketball tournaments changed dramatically. All the boys' teams had to play in the Putnam County Tournament in order to advance in the Ohio High School Athletic Association's State Tournament.

The girls' teams also played in this elimination tournament, but could not advance to the OHSA State Tournament.

From 1924 to 1934, the PCT was the only documented way that the best girls' team was determined. During this time period, the superintendents, coaches and faculty advisors would administer to athletics in PC but no league schedule or league champion in basketball was organized.

During this time frame, however, a Putnam County Track Meet was organized and run each year by the administrators. In 1931, the first PC baseball league was organized. A schedule and rules governing the league were reported in the county newspapers. Glenn Hilty of Pandora was elected president, Homer G. Jones of Vaughnsville, vice president and Supt. Dale Rikard of Crawfis College was chosen secretary.

In the fall of 1933, the Putnam County Sentinel printed a detailed report on the formation of the PCAA.

ATHLETICS IN HIGH SCHOOL Association Formed in 1933 to Promote Policies

A Putnam County Athletic Association was formed recently, with the county superintendent an ex-officio member and the management vested in the board of control, consisting of a member from each school, said member to be either the superintendent, principal or faculty manager of athletics.

The object of the association is to promote a practical working basis for the mutual well-being of the schools of Putnam County, so that the policies of the state athletic association may be realized to the fullest extent.

Any school that is a member in good standing in the state association is eligible to membership and is accepted as soon as the administrative head of the school has signed the prescribed membership blank. At the annual teachers' institute, the board of control organizes by selecting from its membership a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer for a term of one year.

The annual dues are one dollar for each member, payable January 1st. A school which has not paid before Feb. 1st is automatically dropped from membership.

The constitution and rules of the association may be amended by a majority vote of the member schools and the changes become effective at the time specified in the amendment. The board of control may make regulations to promote the aims and interest of the association.

PCL BASKETBALL'S 1st YEAR IN 1935

In the spring of 1934, the "Putnam County Athletic Association met in the county superintendent's office and formed a basketball league for the 1934-1935 season". Seven teams were entered to play. The league sites were to be reversed for the 1935-1936 season. This is the first documented year for the PCL in basketball. The 1935 girls' PCL champion was Leipsic with a 7-0 record. Leipsic also placed first in the PCT.

In 1936, Leipsic, coached by Earnest D. Radenbaugh, won the girls' basketball PCL again with a 6-1 record and the PCT.

THE 4-YEAR PLAN FROM 1937 – 1940

At the spring Putnam County Athletic Association meeting in 1936, a basketball plan for the next four seasons 1937-1940, was submitted by Coach Willard Schaller of Columbus Grove that "was deemed most suitable for this county". "Under Mr. Schaller's plan each school in the county will play six Putnam County teams and may fill out the rest of their schedule as they see fit. Over a period of four years the plan equalizes every schedule so that each team plays the same number of teams with and without girls' teams, and the same number of games at home as away from home." This particular league set up was designed to have the county schools play each other on a regular basis, but it was not meant to determine a yearly PCL basketball champion. Ottoville, the 1936 PCL champion, gives this plan for 1937 credibility since they did not play four other county schools, Continental, Glandorf, Ottawa Public or Palmer.

During the fall meeting of 1937, members of the PCAA discussed concerns about the "advisability of continuing the County Basketball League" for the 1937-1938 season. There was a major concern between the larger and smaller schools, with the small high schools in favor of continuing the present set-up, while the larger schools felt it was a great handicap to their teams. There was no explanation as to which schools were considered the small or larger schools of Putnam County. The schools did not play all the other schools in the county.

There is no mention of the Putnam County basketball league in 1939. Ottawa Public placed first in the PCT and had an unofficial "league record of 6-0-1". However, as in previous years, not all the Putnam County schools played each other.

There is no mention of the Putnam County basketball league in 1940. Leipsic won the PCT, but did not play all of the other schools. This set up for 1939 and 1940 still fits the league parameters that were set up by the PCAA for basketball from 1937-1940.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL ENDED IN 1940!

Girls' basketball was terminated in Putnam County following the 1940 season. There were no specific reasons given, but girls' basketball was never completely endorsed by the OHSAA. Girls' teams were permitted to participate in the PCT at the end of the season, but there was no state tournament. At one time, the OHSAA would allow the girls to play only one game per week and boys were sometimes playing two per day.

The girls' game was different than the boys. An obvious difference was that there were six players on a team and they played half-court, three on three. The girls had many tie games since overtime games were not permitted most of the time. Girls' basketball was essentially ended for almost 35 years. However, the OHSAA started administering to the girls' game again and its first state sponsored tournament was in 1976.

PCL SET-UP FOR 1941 & 1942

The cancellation of girls' basketball had no effect on the boys' league scheduling. However, the boys did go to a double-elimination PCT in 1941. In the 1939 fall meeting of the PCAA, "it was decided to choose a high school basketball champion every two years". A schedule would be set up where each school would play half the league schedule in 1941 and the other half in 1942. At the conclusion of the 1942 season, a PCL champion would be declared.

PCL DROPPED IN 1943

In the spring of 1942, a Putnam County Athletic Association meeting was held. It was mentioned that "basketball for the coming year, 1943, also had its place on the program". However, in 1943 the PCL for basketball was dropped due to the war effort. The Pandora Times reported on October 29, 1942, that "high school coaches and school officials met at Vaughnsville Tuesday night to consider the fate of basketball in Putnam County during the gasoline rationing, and it was voted to continue basketball, but abandon the Putnam County League". It was mentioned that squads should be limited in size and only the varsity teams would play. Schools of any distance would not be played.

PCL RUNNING AGAIN IN 1944

In the fall of 1943, the Putnam County Athletic Association stated that "a county high school basketball league will be in operation again this season after a lapse of one year". The PCL was set up so that all twelve schools would play all the other league schools. A champion would be declared at the conclusion of the season. This same format has now been used for boys' basketball for determining the PCL championship for 77 consecutive years 1944-2020.

IN 1974 GIRLS ARE PARTICIPATING AGAIN IN THE PCL

Girls' basketball, under the umbrella of the GAA and GIA, started playing for PCL Championships again in 1974 after a 37-year absence. The girls have used this method for 47 consecutive years, 1974-2020.

In 1976, the girls' athletic programs were completely sponsored by the OHSAA.

PUTNAM COUNTY LEAGUE TRIVIA

Ottoville has won the most titles with 17. All the current Putnam County schools have won at least one title with the exception of O-G. Pandora, before the consolidation with Blanchard, tied with Leipsic to win the 1936 championship. This was the only title won by a school that is not currently in the PCL.

The most consecutive league wins by any school is 32. Ottoville accomplished this feat by winning the last two games in 2009, going undefeated in 2010 through 2013 and winning the first two games in 2014. Four consecutive league titles have been claimed by Miller City, 2002-2005, Kalida, 1986-1989 and Ottoville 2010-2013.
