When high school girls' basketball was officially sanctioned by the OHSAA with tournament play for the 1975-1976 school year, junior high basketball was not far behind. The various schools in Putnam County were playing organized basketball, but it was not until 1986 that the administrators of the PCL started a Putnam County League Tournament for the 8th grade girls.

In 1988, the PCL added three tournaments for the 7th and 8th grade boys and the 7th grade girls. This format is still used today with the tournaments being randomly rotated among the PCL schools.
